jupiter:

already done that with no success. Can't try last known config as the errors on start up will not allow this also have done a repair on drive as this is what I have done to get rid of the errors in the first place I have also put the hdd into another machine running winxp to see if would rebuild the ntfs partition if there were any errors this also has not helped thinking maybe only way is to load a fresh install onto machine as the data is very valuable. Do you know how to view the event logs under the recovery menu????
