If you are using AOL as your ISP, you need to minimize your AOL browser and launch Internet Explorer, then visit the Windows Update web site while using Internet Explorer.

Try the following solution from the Windows Update Troubleshooter:
<http://v4.windowsupdate.microsoft.com/troubleshoot/>

Select:

"Problem Downloading/Installing a Software (Non-Driver) item"

Follow steps under:

"Install stops at 0% when using the AOL Browser"

While using the Internet Explorer browser, try downloading the updates again: <http://v4.windowsupdate.microsoft.com/en/default.asp>

P.S. Make sure to disable your antivirus program and close any open programs before installing updates.

| I woke up early this morning and turned on my computer.
| Got the Latest Updates Ready To Install message.
| I Installed them and restarted my computer.
| After I did, every program I opened, the scroll bar would
| jump insanely.
| It is extraordinarily difficult to read a webpage, let
| alone click on links to check for more info.

microsoft.public.windowsxp.security_admin: Re: Latest Updates downloaded, scroll bar jumping insanely

| I tried using System restore, to reset my computer back a
| week before the updates.
| No effect.
| I tried downloading the latest blaster worm patch from
| the microsoft site, but when I finished I got a
| Cryptographic error message (which I see many others are | getting also)
| Anybody have any suggestions?
| I would be greatly appreciative.
