Ever seven seconds you see the screen blink as if the program were saving itself. If several programs are open it slows the computer down. In Quicken it moves the curser back to the date field and the date changes to today's date. In most programs (like MS Word) the hour glass "wait" appears and everything pauses. I have Norton Firewall and anti viruse up to date and running and have used spysweeper to look for spyware. I have shut every thing I can thing of down (hardware and software) and it keeps right on doing it. What ever it is make it very hard to use some programs. Any one have a suggestion.
