The first thing you should do is enable Windows XP's built-in Firewall:

1. In Control Panel, double-click Networking and Internet Connections, and then click Network Connections.
2. Right-click the connection on which you would like to enable ICF, and then click Properties.
3. On the Advanced tab, click the box to select the option to Protect my computer or network.

Download the following to a new folder on your Desktop:

Then read and follow the procedures outlined in the following articles:

Last, but not least, consider purchasing and installing a good internet security package, such as:

Norton Internet Security 2003

http://www.symantec.com/sabu/nis/nis_pe/

- Includes Norton AntiVirus 2003
- Includes Norton Personal Firewall
- Includes prevention of annoying web pop-ups
- Includes Parental Controls
- All in one, easy-to-install & manage package
