Please can someone help me ?

I have Windows XP Pro installed on my laptop and I now seem to have two administrators. When I boot up the PC it starts up the another administrator with the briefest of settings. I then have to go to the Log Off Icon and change users, so I can log on to my normal administrator account. I am the only person who uses this PC and it's annoying having to keep switching users to get to my settings.

I would be grateful for all the help that I can get.

Thanks in advance.
