Windows XP does not have a screensaver password option per say. Click on the Screensaver tab in Display properties and place a check next to "On resume, password protect", then click Apply.

| I know this is probably a stupid question - so sorry in advance.

| I just had my laptop rebuilt and I can not get my XP screen saver password to work. When I go to display - screen saver and select a screen saver it does not ask about passwords. In fact none of the screen savers has a password attached to them. What am I doing wrong?

| Thanks!
