I am getting obnoxious pop ups constantly. I have norton Anti Virus, adaware se, pop up blocker turned on with explorer browser, Spy bot search and destroy. I scan for spyware constantly but cant get rid of these particular pop ups. They say ADSERVER on the web bar when they pop up. My children use my computer and some of them have prevocative adds for Singles sights. The women are scantily dressed of course How can I get rid of this? Immediately after I run a scan and delete everything and reboot my computer my Norton pops up that it has found spyware and prompts me to run another scan. It is always the same message. It says it is ADWARE. I scan, ifind it, remove it and then it just comes back again.

Please help.

Try booting into safe mode and then using Norton to eradicate the pest. Looks like the pest loads itself when you load Windows normally. It might not load when booted into Safe mode.
