Steve

I have checked event viewer – nothing being reported there.

ChkDsk has been run and no errors found or fixed.

Strangely I thought safe mode would produce the same results but this wasn't the case – I have full functionality after a reboot into safe mode. This may be due to the running process / program which is causing the issue.

I have tried by a process of elimination to find the program which causes the issue – but haven't been able too.

However I am now going to source an external HDD over the Xmas period – backup my data and an image of my disk before re-installing the OS and programs – it's about time this was done as the PC needs a tidy-up.

Thanks
Steve
