I cannot download some files. I get a message saying I need to go to the control panel, Internet Options and go to one of the seven tabs that are there to enable ActiveX. When I go to control panel and click on Internet Options, the file is called "Properties" not "Internet Properties" and I only have two tabs – Privacy and Programs – instead of the seven I should have – General, Security Privacy, Content, Communications, Programs and Advanced.

Apparently somehow this program has been modified and I am short some of the things that belong there. My question is how do I get the full group of tabs back so I can enable ActiveX.

Thanks for any help I can get.
