Hello:

I have a Windows XP Pro [SP2] machine on the network that has a second data partition which apparently has ~(14) GB of data on it, but I cannot "see" any of it via Windows Explorer.

I assume the data is either corrupt or has been improperly deleted/altered, but there may be other reasons for this behavior too.

Are there any native tools that I can use to try and determine what's happened to this data and possibly recover it?

Any suggestion would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks,

Bob
